A true story about how an unscrupulous sheriff, his wife, daughter, and a special needs son, an inexperienced judge, a financial advisor and his wife, a deputy, an employee at an assisted living facility, two social workers, an ex-mayor, six attorneys, a prosecutor, an estate attorney, a doctor, a Department of Consumer and Business Services, the S.B.C., the FBI, and a State Attorney General, used predatory tactics, failed to assist family members, or assisted in helping control an elderly couple in their 90s and fleece them and their heir out of their property and money. How they medicated and manipulated a grandmother with a long history of dementia due to years of spousal abuse into signing legal documents allowing them to take control of every aspect of the couples lives. How the couple's grandson and a relative who was significantly involved with the couple for many years were deliberately denied information as to the couple's wherabouts, court information, access to their property, bank account and safe deposit box. How a doctor was deliberately misinformed and manipulated into making false claims in written statements to the court about phantom predators taking advantage of the old couple and stealing large sums of their money. How a lawyer appointed by the court to work on behalf of the couple knew these claims could not be substantiated may have failed to inform the same judge who assigned her to protect the couple. The doctor, instead of being removed, was allowed to continue caring for the couple with the help of a non-professional giving him orders and falsely claiming to have a significant role in the grandmother's life for many years. How the court covered up their mistakes and illegal actions by sealing the court records and denying the public and press access.

Five Ways To Breathe New Life Into Your Home

(NAPS)-Whether the urge to remodel strikes during National Home Improvement Month or any other time of year, you can seamlessly update your home with just a few simple steps toward improved design, comfort, functionality, energy efficiency and curb appeal.

1. Work with what you have. Look around your home. Is there anything in dire need of replacing or refurbishing? Updates may not be as expensive as you might think. Consider this: If your kitchen cabinets are looking a little worn, consider resurfacing instead of replacing them. Just remove the doors, then strip and refinish or repaint them. Invest in new handles and pulls, as well as new hinges if they're visible.

2. Build a greener home with energy-efficient enhancements. Homeowners can dramatically cut energy costs without major renovations. Instead of new windows, try caulk and weather stripping to stop any air leaks on the windows you already have. Install high-efficiency water heaters to drive down heating costs. You can also install an ENERGY STAR-certified air conditioner that adds to your home's good looks. For example, the Art Cool Mirror ductless indoor unit from LG has a flat panel with a charcoal mirror finish that complements any décor. Plus, when paired with LG's Smart AC, homeowners can control the system and monitor temperature on their smartphone anytime day or night, whether at home or away.

3. Beautify your yard to increase personal comfort now and receive more cash later. Try planting deciduous trees on the south side of your house to provide additional shade in the hotter months, allowing you to cut down on air-conditioning expenses and save energy. What's more, real estate experts estimate that by spending five percent of the value of your home on quality, low-maintenance landscaping, you could boost the resale value by 15 percent.

4. Create a seamless look for your kitchen. A counter-depth refrigerator, like a three-door French door refrigerator from LG, will allow homeowners to get the sophisticated look they desire for their kitchen without sacrificing space or the added cost of installing an actual built-in appliance. To help keep the hub of your home clean, establish a message center in your kitchen. Put a bulletin board or chalkboard on the wall and store a calendar, notebook and writing utensils in a nearby drawer to help eliminate clutter.

5. Stylish lighting is a bright idea. A striking chandelier or light fixture can serve as a charming addition in a well-composed room. Lighting is also one of the easiest ways to update your space; a petite desk lamp or floor lamp can significantly brighten up a room. Be sure to use ENERGY STAR-qualified bulbs to make it a truly eco-friendly yet chic addition (and save up to $70 a year in energy costs).

Five Energy-Efficient Interior Design Tips

(NAPS)-While most people know that energy efficiency is an important consideration when purchasing appliances or mechanical systems for the home, you may care to consider how your interior design choices can also affect energy efficiency.

Try these five tips to help reduce your home's carbon footprint and save even more on your utility bills:

- Furnishings: Your selection and placement of furnishings can change how warm or cool a room feels. Furniture features such as high backs or fabric skirts can help reduce drafts. Throw blankets can introduce a fun color or print while reducing the need for heating.

- Flooring: If you have hard flooring such as hardwood, stained concrete, laminate or the like, as opposed to carpeting, adding or subtracting area rugs can help the room feel warmer or cooler. In addition, be careful about where you position pieces so you don't block air vents. You can also get vent deflectors to redirect the air as it comes out.

- Lighting: If you've been holding off on switching to more efficient lightbulbs because you don't care for the quality of light they give off, take another look at what's available. Newer LED and compact fluorescent bulbs are getting closer to the warm light of incandescents and their energy savings are hard to beat.

- Fans: As you're evaluating your lighting fixtures, consider if you can incorporate a ceiling fan with an integrated light into any room. Fans aren't just for hot weather - those with a reversible setting can be switched to turn clockwise in the winter, so they recirculate warm air that has risen to the ceiling, which may also help to reduce heating bills.

- Windows: Draperies can sometimes block views to the outdoors as well as deter the natural light from coming in. A newer alternative can be 3M Sun Control Window Film, which is designed to let light in while keeping heat out. To determine how much this could save on your air conditioner use, try the Cooling Savings Calculator at www.3M.com/InteriorDesign.

In addition to rejecting heat, window films can help keep sunlight from fading carpets and furnishings. They're even available in versions that don't change the look of your windows or your home, so you can maintain both clear views to the outside and the curb appeal of your house.

The right energy-efficient upgrades can not only help save you money in the short term, they can increase the resale value of your house, so you may want to start thinking about changes you can make today.

To maximize the energy efficiency of your home, consider a window film that is designed to let light in while keeping heat out.

Give Your Home A Fall Facelift

(StatePoint) A seasonal home makeover doesn't need to cost a fortune or be difficult to execute. Quick, easy, and innovative ideas can give your home the fall flair needed to celebrate the season.

"Seasonal decor updates should jive with your home's style, while also adding something extra to the mix," says Eric Cohler, who has been listed as a top international designer by House Beautiful and Elle Decor magazines. "Keep it easy though, so that when the season is over, you won't end up with a lack of motivation to refresh and a space that feels passé."

To add autumn elements to your home without completely revamping your interior, consider these ideas:

Rotating Gallery

A digital photo display is the easiest way to showcase seasonally suitable photos of friends and family. In fall, that means Halloween portraits, autumn picnics, trips to the pumpkin patch, and back-to-school photos.

Consider rotating the artwork displayed in your home to highlight seasonal colors. Whether you want to get spooky for Halloween or focus on fall's natural hues, this task won't take long to do and will greatly impact the look and feel of each room.

Pops of Color

"With relatively little effort, you can add bright, bold colors to your home by swapping out the knobs and handles on your cabinets, credenzas, and other furniture," says Cohler. Seasonal sets of cabinet hardware can keep the look fresh in your home. All you need is a screwdriver and a few hours.

A free web-based application, Splash by Amerock, offers a new interactive design and shopping experience by allowing you to truly customize hardware for cabinets and furniture. The interactive site and first of its kind product line allows you to test various colors and shapes of cabinetry hardware and view the different looks on different style and color cabinets.

From kitchens to bathrooms to bedrooms and living areas, you can make your rooms pop with bold colors. Think orange, purple, and black for Halloween flair, or greens, reds, and browns for a natural effect.

Hardware is easy to swap out and you can give your home a fun, fresh fall makeover inexpensively and without much hassle. To check out 20 unique color options, visit www.Amerock.com

Curtains

Another easy way to make a quick look-and-feel change to a room is by swapping out curtains. It's a great way to customize a space to better fit the mood of the season. What's more - a quarterly rotation of window treatments presents a much-needed opportunity for a good cleaning. Be sure to store your freshly laundered linens in a sealed bag so they don't collect dust. When they make their appearance the following year, they will be vibrant and fresh.

Fall can be a particularly busy time of year; however, a few easily implemented ideas can go a long way to add a festive vibe to your home.

"Chicago" At Spokane's Modern Theater

Carol Horning Stacey

The spirit of the great choreographer Bob Fosse lies behind the success of Chicago, a musical he co-wrote with lyricist Fred Ebb. The show was originally produced in 1975 and more recently made into a successful film. Now the Modern Theater is presenting Chicago in Spokane, where it will run through October 23, playing Thursdays through Saturdays at 7:30pm and Sundays at 2pm.

The story was inspired by actual crimes and corruption during the lawless Prohibition Era in Chicago. It tells of two murderesses who become celebrities. It is a dancers' show, quite a challenge on the odd stage of the Modern Theater - Interplayers' old three-quarter in the round playing space. Abbey Crawford directs this version with musical direction by Heather Brown. The Modern is located at 174 S. Howard. For tickets call 509-455-PLAY.

IDFG's Improved Fishing Planner Makes Finding Fishing Holes Easy

Idaho Fish and Game

Want to go fishing, but need help finding a spot? The Idaho Department of Fish and Game's newly improved Fishing Planner is back. This mobile-friendly interactive search tool is designed to help anglers find information on their next fishing hole.

Available at <http://fishandgame.idaho.gov/ifwis/fishingPlanner/> the Fishing Planner provides one-stop shopping for searching places to go fishing, with maps of how to get there and what they're likely to catch. Anglers can also search for places to catch a specific species of fish, recent and historic stocking reports, fishing waters within a certain distance of selected cities, and what kind of facilities they'll find when they get there.

"We want to make it easy for anglers of all skill levels to research places to catch fish," said Martin Koenig, Fish and Game's sportfishing coordinator. "The new Fishing Planner gives everyone easy access to the fishing rules, what species live there, how to get there and the facilities available"

Popular and easy to access waters are listed in the Recommended and Family Fishing Waters options. Fishing rules and interactive maps are available with layers like topographic maps, region boundaries, satellite imagery, and more.

Click on the blue Fishing Planner logo found at the bottom of the department's website, or look for it under the Fishing tab. Finding information about your next spot is now easier than ever. Deciding what spot to choose may not be.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Luck evens out in the long run, so if you want to be a winner at bridge, you have to play better than those you play with.

Let's say you're in six hearts and West leads the king of clubs, which you ruff. You play the queen of trumps and finesse, but East wins with the king and returns the queen of spades.

It looks as though you must lose a spade trick and go down one, but if you put your gray cells to work, the way to avoid the spade loser emerges.

So you win East's spade return with dummy's king, ruff a club with the ten, re-enter dummy with a low trump to the nine and ruff another club with the jack.

This runs you out of trumps in your hand, since you've ruffed clubs three times and led trumps twice, but that's precisely what you've been trying to do.

You now enter dummy with a diamond and draw West's last trump with the ace, discarding a spade from your hand. Your K-Q-J-10 of diamonds and ace of spades then win the last five tricks, and the slam is home as your spade loser vanishes into thin air.

To come to 12 tricks, you scored five trump tricks instead of only the four you seemed to have after the trump finesse failed. It might seem odd that to make the slam you must discard your spade loser on one of dummy's trumps, but that's the way things usually go in dummy-reversal hands.
